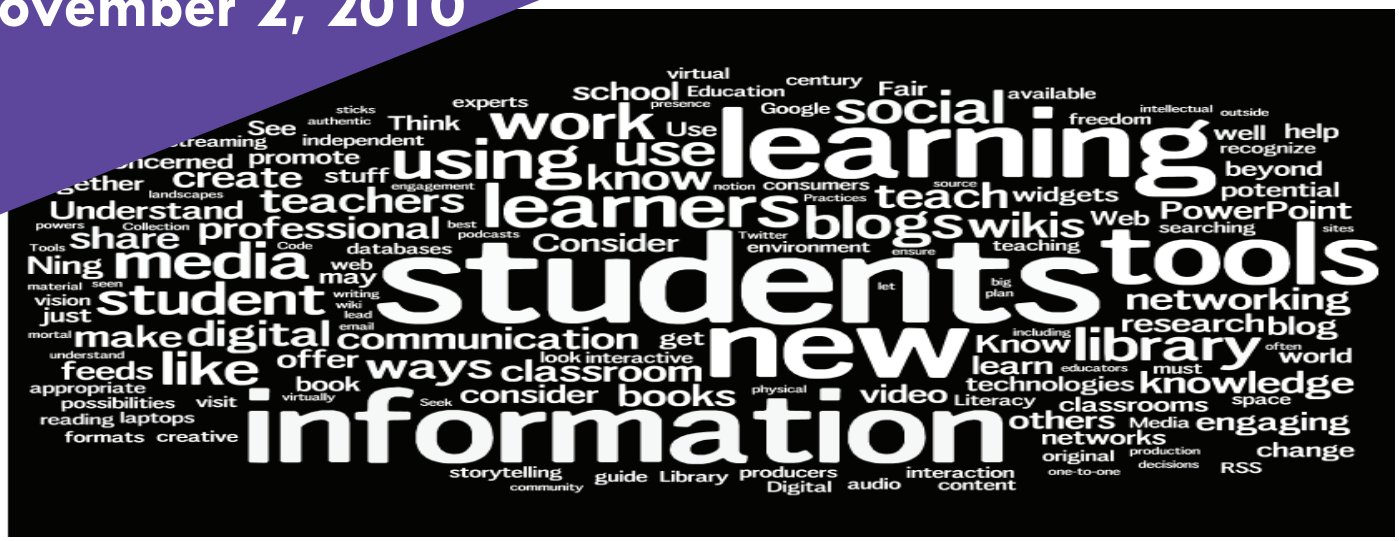
Fall Conference
November 2, 2010



21st Century Learning in the Library

What? Library Services Annual Fall Conference, 21st Century Learning in the Library -- a full day of FREE professional development.

Highlights of the Day:

- A keynote by librarian extraordinaire, Joyce Valenza, on the 21st century library program;
- Exhibits from dozens of vendors;
- Concurrent sessions on literacy, technology, inquiry, and library operations;
- Professional dialogue with librarians from across the city.

Who? All library personnel, administrators, and interested teachers!

Where? Brooklyn Technical High School at 29 Ft. Greene Place, Brooklyn, NY 11217.

When? Election Day, Tuesday, November 2, 2010 from 8:00 am to 3:00 pm.

How? Register online at http://pd.nycoit.org by October 30th.

For additional information, please contact the Office of Library Services at libraries@schools.nyc.gov or (212) 374-0328.

Attendance at this conference is free for all schools.

NYC School Library System

Office of Library Services

NYC Department of Education